

Lost?

"I'm not doing enough"

REMEMBER.

Feeling lost is so so so normal. Your only a teenager and everyone expects you to have your whole life figured out. BUT YOU DON'T HAVE TO. Take the chance to understand yourself and what you enjoy before deciding your whole future based on what someone said.

Your doing
ENOUGH.

I promise even if it doesn't feel like it. Your doing enough. If your stress about everything you have to do and looking at others wondering if your doing enough. Your probably doing TOO MUCH.

IGNORE the noise.

No - I'm not talking about literal noise.

Im talking about friends, family anyone who judges you for what your trying to achieve.

Ignore them. They are just jealous I promise. People who achieve their dreams don't listen to every negative comment they get. They use it as fuel to do everything they wanted to do.

DONT dwell on LOSS.

Failing sucks - trust me I Know. But ALWAYS remember when one door closes another door opens. It is so much easier said than done. BUT don't focus on the outcome thing about the experience you gained. KEEP GOING NO MATTER WHAT!

FIND your people.

Use our platform! Connect with people like yourself.

It is really hard to make friends, trust me I Know! That is why I created this. Connect with individuals I am sure you will find someone you really like.